THAT "TOURIST" may have a million dollars to spend in your town...

Any day, winter or summer, he may come to your town. Looking like an ordinary tourist. Asking questions. Taking pictures. Casually dressed, friendly, observant. You'll never know, looking at him, that he is considering your town for a new, million-dollar industrial plant . . . a plant that could bring new jobs, new progress, new prosperity to your community.

SELL YOUR COMMUNITY

Make sure your community is ready when that "tourist" with the million dollars comes visiting. Spruce up your town — support civic improvements — help create the right business climate — work with the groups that are interested in industrial development. When you actively sell your community as a progressive, on-the-go municipality, you are helping create new opportunities for yourself and your children. And the time to start is today, because that "tourist" may be visiting your town tomorrow!

Japanese Beetles

Scores of people have called to determine what will control the Jap beetle. Control is difficult for two reasons: (1) the insect is a strong flyer. Although you may kill those feeding on plants at the present, others will migrate in a nd begin feedings; (2) recent rains wash insecticides off rapidly. On ornamentals, use DDT at the rate of 1 1-2 tablespoons of 50. per cent wettable powder per gallon water. On vegetables, use either Sevin, Malathion or methoychlor.

Jap beetles show a fondness for smartweed, grapes (roses and blackberries. If there pdants are not available, they will feed on secondary plants.

Tobacco Insects

Endrin has been used for several years in the flue-cured tobacco area with good results. It is probably one of the best insecticides we have for this purpose. It is extremely toxic and precaution should be followed when making application. Workers should not handle treated tobacco within five days following application. Note: Fish are extremely susceptible - a small amount can kill all fiish in an average size farm pond.

Some have used this insecticide on vegetable plants - this is extremely risky. Use insecticides on vegetables that are less toxic to warm-blooded animals.

Heptachlor May Be Used To Control Alfalfa Weevil

The insecticide heptachlor is recommended again this fall for control of alfalfa weevil. Research continues to show that fall application of heptachlor are effective against the overwintering adult weevils. Growers may use either commercially prepared fertilizer - heptachlor mixtures or a 2 1-2 per cent granular heptachlor at any time after the last cutting this fall but not later than October 15.

In addition to the manner and time of treatment, the following precautions must be taken to avoid the problem of residues: Do not make more than one treatment. Do not pasture animals on treated fields until after the first cutting of alfalfa is made next spring.

Four medium analysis fertilizers with two pounds of heptachlor per ton to be applied at rates of 800 to 1,000 pounds per acre will be available this fall. They are: 0-9-27, 8-10-20; 0-14-14 and 2-12-12.

Two high analysis grades with four pounds of heptachlor per ton will also be available. Rate of application 400 - 500 pounds per acre. They are 0-18-36 and 0-25-25.

If a farmer does not treat his alfalfa stands this fall, he can spray his fields next spring with either methoychlor or malathion. He should not use heptachlor in any form after October 15 this fall. Information on spray applications may be obtained from this office. We can also recommend steps to follow in seeding new stands of alfalfa this fall. In most areas, new stands should be protected against weevil damage.

Feeder Pig Sale

The third feeder pig sale for 1961 will be held on Thursday afternoon, August 17, at Lynchburg Livestock Market. Pigs will be vaccinated for cholera and erysipelas. Next sale set for November 16.

Tobacco Plants

With tobacco plants in many fields making irregular growth, serious problems can result from the use of MH-30 for sucker control if large and small plants are sprayed at the same time, tobacco specialists at Virginia Polytechnic Institute warn.

Small plants that get sprayed will be stunted and both yield and quality of tobacco will be reduced.

CHURCH SUSPPER

There will be a church supper, sponsored by the Wesley Fellowship Class of the Memorial Methodist Church on Saturday, July 29, from 5 to 8 P. M. It will be on the lawn of the local high school. In case of rain, it will be held in the high school cafeteria.
